

The master bathroom in this 8,000 sq ft Indore house disguises the shower stall behind the basin and the dresser. The bathroom is a clear area with the shower hidden out of view from the entrance.

Architect Prajacta Kadu has designed this bathroom in white supported by wood. A burst of colour fills the Grohe shower stall with its tiled wall and a mural. The Duravit square basin is placed on a marble platform that provides enough room to hold essentials. Drawers and cabinets, below the basin, provide space for storage.

The utility area is located on one side and a screen with wooden panels separates it from the shower area. Walk-in wardrobes occupy the wall at the entrance of the bathroom.

For the full story, log on to trendsideas.com/go/31473

more homes at trendsideas.com

arch avenue
Interior designers & Architects

Home Trends
May-2011